

Call for Presenters
AALS Section on Graduate Programs for Non-U.S. Lawyers

The AALS Section on Graduate Programs for Non-U.S. Lawyers will present a panel at the 2016 Annual Meeting in New York on the topic of "Recruiting LL.M. Students: Promises, Expectations, Resources, and Realities." The program will be held on Friday, January 8, 2016, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. The planning committee expects to choose two or three presenters at the session from a call for presenters and is seeking proposals on any aspect of this topic.

Program Description:

The subject of recruiting students is an important topic, critical to the success of all LL.M. programs. Proposals should be comprehensive enough to allow the selection committee to meaningfully evaluate the aims and likely content of the presentation and to consider how various presentations will work together for the program.

Deadline and submission method:

To be considered, proposals must be submitted electronically to Prof. Mark E. Wojcik at The John Marshall Law School in Chicago, Chair of the AALS Section on Graduate Programs for Non-U.S. Lawyers, at mwojcik@jmls.edu, by Monday, September 14, 2015. Presenters will be informed in October whether their proposal was selected.

Eligibility: Only full-time faculty members of AALS member or fee-paid law schools are eligible to submit proposals. Foreign, visiting (without a full-time position at an AALS member or fee-paid law school) and adjunct faculty members, graduate students, fellows, and non-law school faculty are not eligible to submit a proposal. As with other presenters at the AALS meeting, presenters chosen from this call will be responsible for paying their annual meeting registration fee and travel expenses.

Please forward this Call for Presenters to other eligible faculty who may be interested in submitting proposals.
